AT NINE O'CLOCK PARADE WILL FORM AT PIONEER MONUMENT.

The sun sank last evening in a blaze of grange and purple hues, softened by the blue of a cloudless sky, which is taken as a sign from the Great Wizard of the Wasatch to his wards and subjects that tonight will see no repetition of the battle of the elements which broke up the parade in honor of the august wizard last Monday night. Again the order to assemble in mystic array at Pioneer monument, there to meet and do reverence in solemn procession to the mountain ruler, has come from the Cave of the Necromancers, bearing the signature of the great and majestic Hatu, mighty master of all that

Hatu, with his ghostly train, stalk silently from his mountain caverns and appear splendidly mounted before the gathered hosts. In silence and with due solemnity and decorum, preserving the usual air of mystery, the pageant will proceed down Main street to Fifth South, counter-

After battling for several hours over the office of senior vice president of the Women's Relief corps Wednesday at the First Presbyterian church, the honor of that office went to Denver, Colo., while Salt Lake could have had the place if the local organizations could have got together. A rule in the national organization generally recognized as a matter of courtesy is, that should the state in which the encampment is held present a candidate, that person is supposed to receive considerable recognition, where all other circumstances are even. The two local corps could not get together upon a definite candidate, and Colorado won.

Mrs. Jones, however, was elected junior vice president over Mrs. Brooks. Charlotte Wright, Connecticut, was elected treasurer, and the council of administration is composed of the following: Mrs. Anna DePew, Chicago; Fannie McEwen, Texas; Cora Campbell, Idaho, and Ada D. Lindsay, Oklahoma.

was held last night with the tabernacie well filled. The program consisted of twelve pieces by the choir and pipe organ in unison and several solos. The eighth selection, soldier's chorus, "Glory and Love," sung in honor of the veterans, brought forth a unique demonstration on the part of the old soldiers present. When the piece was concluded about a hundred veterans rose to their feet and at a signal from one, gave nine cheers in appreciation.

The list had been prepared at Washington for the President, and the qualifications of every man inquired into.

There has been marked discontent among some Southern Republicans over the Presidents decision to divide the census patronage in the "solid South."

Colonel Cecil Lyon, Republican national committeeman, came all the way from Texas to tell the President that he would rather have the state put in charge of rather have the state put in charge of one supervisor—a good Republican, of course—than to have divided the congressional districts with the Democrats. Colonel Lyon said the declaration of this policy on his part held good for all the

He said many of the supervisors appointed by the President were endorsed by business organizations in the communities in which they live, and have been selected more for their capabilities as officials than for any active part they have played in politics. In fact, President Taft, it is said, laid down the rule that supervisors shall not be the rule that supervisors shall not be active partisans and that no attempts should be made to build up political machines out of the census patronage. Wizard's Latest Effulgence.

The Wizard's latest communication to his wards reads in this way:

conceal the crime, which, he said, Mr. Davis had charged by imputation at least.

Mr. Birney attacked Mrs. Sutton and declared she has pursued his client and his associates with malevolent hatred, not with evidence of maternal sorrow inspiring her.

Mr. Birney placed Lieutenant Sutton in the attitude of a whipped coward. He pictured the automobile ride and the two fist fights that followed it as they have been described in the testimony of the lieutenant witnesses, and declared Sutton had gone to camp and armed himself with the deliberate purpose of doing murder.

The Wizard's latest communication to his wards reads in this way:

To All My Wards and Other Faithful Subjects, Greeting—After the battle of the elements on the evening of Aug. 9, which made impossible our entrance into the city, and after proper chastisement of our spirits of the air, we have determined to follow our original thought to visit and inspect this part of our domain. Therefore all wards are warned to be in readiness on Saturday evening to meet us and our personal escort at the Pioneer monument, at the hour of 9, to carry out our original order of Aug. 8, as follows:

Major Leonard, the judge advocate, said he rose to protest against two points in Mr. Davis' argument. He himself came here, he said, with every good wish for and willingness to help Mrs. Sutton and Mrs. Parker to bring every evidence possible before the court. They had not, as they should have done, given him all the foots in their possession.
